Staff Consultant Business Analyst

JOB DESCRIPTION

A TechBlue Business Analyst plays a critical role in the success of client engagements. Our Business Analysts are well-disciplined liaisons between development teams and stakeholders, and experience a high-degree of accountability for solution effectiveness, accuracy and performance. We are looking for a Business Analyst to join our national consultancy practice to lead the analysis tasks for our client engagements.

An ideal candidate will have 3-5 years of professional experience leading business analysis efforts for highly-visible IT projects or business solution projects. The Business Analyst will have experience with common analysis approaches, tools and technologies, exhibit comfort when engaging internal and external resources to elicit requirements, and possess the discipline and experience to distinguish requests from needs.

An exceptional candidate will have experience translating project scope into tasks and deliverables, serving as a critical point of accountability for project success, and have multi-industry experience to draw from when processing data and information. A TechBlue Business Analyst is a natural leader with a presence that elicits trust, confidence and responsibility.

Additional desired skills and experience:

- Expertise in leading systems, software and business analysis efforts to elicit solution requirements and objectives
- Expertise in creating actionable technical, functional and business requirements documentation including UML, Use Cases, data flow diagrams and other artifacts
- Comfortable leading requirements analysis efforts and interfacing with client participants to include elicitation, negotiation, specification validation and management of requirements
- Comfortable modeling and communicating system functionality and behavior to architects and developers
- Experience with SDLC tools and development environments
- Exemplary customer-facing skills
- Exemplary oral and written communication skills
- Previous consulting experience with a focus on complete technology solution design, development and delivery
- Up to 50% travel and possible work outside of normal business hours; must be able to obtain a security clearance

Company description:

TechBlue is a consultative firm that delivers technology and strategic solutions for our clients. We excel at transforming organizations to be smarter, be faster and be better in dynamic and rapidly changing business environments.

In joining TechBlue you will become part of a team that applies innovation, skill and knowledge to transform the core capabilities of some of the world's leading public and private organizations. As a TechBlue team member you will collaborate with clients to deliver new capabilities that facilitate strategic business objectives.

TechBlue is a small company, but with a big company perspective. We don't strive to put people in seats to drive revenue. Our success is based on the ideas and deliveries of our team. Your contributions will be visible, accountable and recognized as a core component of both TechBlue, and our client's success strategies.

If your idea of a rewarding work day includes collaborating with people that are great at what they do, delivering visible solutions that create value for clients, all while developing your potential through an engaging career experience, TechBlue is the right place for you.

TechBlue is an Equal Opportunity Employer